

GREG WINKLER

2012 National Youth Soccer
Coach of the Year

Greg has been a coach for over three decades, an educator for 25 years, an athletic director for 14 years, a youth sport organization president, an instructor for ASEP, and author. Greg has presented at the Wisconsin Athletic Directors Convention, the Wisconsin State Soccer Coaches convention, and the National Athletic Directors Conference.

Parental Guidance: Keys to Communicating Effectively with Parents. Are you aware that the annual drop-out rate for high school coaches is 20%, and if you take away football and basketball that rate climbs to 25%.

There are a variety of reasons for coaches leaving the profession, family, low pay and long hours, and lack of support are certainly some of the reasons, but the #1 reason for coaches bailing on the profession they love is - Parental conflicts. Coach Winkler will present proven ways to make parents part of the team.

Coaching for Significance - As coaches, leaders, administrators, it is our mission to bring the best of out of every athlete, every employee. When we make everyone on the team feel an important part of the team, when they feel like a valued member of the team or organization regardless of the role they play, that is when you have significance.

Goal Setting: Making it work for you team, making it work for you. - How can you use goal setting to increase performance, individual and team success. Coach Winkler can share over three decades of coaching experience to help you get the most out of your teams.

The Youth Sport Myth - Debunking the college scholarship myth. The role of youth sports, how it can help build your community sports programs and how it hinders your community sports programs. How to involve all stakeholders. National statistics show that 70% of all youth sport participants quit before the age of 15, how can coaches help retain more youth players, let Coach Winkler help you improve this percentage.

If you are interested in having Coach Winkler speak to your group, you can contact him at gregwinkler10@gmail.com or you can call, (920)960-8814.

